Regarding, new extension works to be taken up by KVKs and VUTRC's, the house suggested that following new extension work may be taken up by the University as soon as possible :

1. Constitution of Scientific Advisory Committee (SAC):

To assess, review and guide the programme and progress of VUTRC's, Dr. G.N. Mathur suggested constitution of Scientific Advisory Committee (SAC). The members of this Committee may comprises a cross section of scientific, farming community, representatives of both government and non-government organizations who are directly or indirectly involved in the process of animal husbandry training, production and development as constituted for KVK's. It was resolved to formulate such Scientific Advisory Committee (SAC) for VUTRC.

2. Training of Rural Youth as RAJUVAS Sakha/Sakhi:

It was resolved that one person (male/ female) who is reasonably educated and preferably young and unemployed from each panchayat will be given training for Animal Husbandry practices, first aid to the animals and artificial insemination. He/she will be known as RAJUVAS Sakha/Sakhi in the area. He/she will disseminate and use the training given to him for the welfare of animals and economic gain to the farmers. By this way, University should train about 10,000 young and uneducated rural persons as RAJUVAS Sakha in next five years, so that at least one Sakha/Sakhi may represent from every gram panchayat of the State.

3. Organization of State and District level "Pashu Vigyan Mela":

The University extension education service maintains live and intimate links with other departments and the field level functionaries of different line departments of the State, development agencies and farmers on the other hand. Further, to coordinate the Extension Education activities with other line departments in the State, it was resolved to organize a "Pashu Vigyan Mela" annually at each VUTRC's so that the animal owners of particular district can be given new technology at their own places and good producing animals of local breeds can be identified. A state level "Pashu Vigyan Mela" can also be organized at University Head Quarters so that the new technologies in the field of Veterinary and Animal Husbandry can be demonstrated and transferred to large number of farmers at one place.

4. Extensive Training programme of farmers:

It was resolved that the efforts can be made to increase the number of beneficiaries through line departments like Animal Husbandry, Agriculture, ATMA, NGO's. Health and infertility camps can be organized in collaboration with line department or NGO's.

Agenda No.: EEC/02/F

Discussions about development of farmers' education, trainings and advisory services

A detailed discussion was held on this point in house. The Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor suggested that DEE should handle SMS Service & Toll Free Helpline Service for the farmers. Toll free number should be attached to PBX & one operator can connect to expert of the University according to farmer's problem. Farmer's portal should be developed as suggested by Joint Secretary, National Livestock Mission. Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor told that role of RAJUVAS should be as state player for Government of Rajasthan as far as veterinary and animal science matters are concerned. VUTRC's & KVK should form the database of farmers' mobile numbers & email address as far as available so that the published material can be disseminated to farmers in one shot.

Agenda No.: EEC/02/G

Discussion about generation of extension materials, compilation of transferable technologies etc.,

To bring out the desirable changes among the farmers to increase productivity from animals, involves both learning, and teaching which needs some tools or methods commonly known as extension-teaching methods. Presently a monthly Hindi publication of "Pashupalan Naye Aayam" is being undertaken by DEE and "Pashu Aahar Evum Chara Bulletin" by LFRMTC, Bikaner for farmers community. Looking to the need of the day, it was resolved to develop region-wise need based transferable technologies and leaflets by the VUTRC's, which will be transferred to the animal owners in on and off campus trainings or at farmers door. Hon'ble Vice-Chancellor also suggested that the publication of the extension literature should be centralized with DEE. All the departmental heads and PI's of University Centers should support and provide necessary input to the DEE, RAJUVAS, Bikaner for preparation of such materials. All the published material can also be sent to panchayat samities or gram panchayats. It was also resolved that e-Kiosk should be established at every VUTRC's so that the farmers can get the desired information by touch screen handling.

At the end, while giving thanks for inviting in this meeting, Dr. G.N. Mathur suggested that VUTRC's can be strengthened by extension initiatives which includes collection, compilation and dissemination of livestock technologies like increase in feed and fodder production by Hydroponics and Azola farming, use of solar energy, Gobar Gas etc. Survey should be done for the purpose of real problem identification and participation in solving the problem. All the Officer Incharge of VUTRC's & KVK should have interphase with line department's officers from Joint Directors to Veterinary Officers and Agriculture Extension Officers of their district. Every action of VUTRC's should be directed towards the increase in productivity per unit of animal. Prof. Mathur also suggested that every VUTRC may have a revolving fund. Sh. Sudesh Chaudhary, Progressive farmer & Chairman, Gangmul Dairy stressed that policy makers and political leaders need to be sensitized about the affairs of animals and its production. Animal Husbandry enterprises need to be made profitable otherwise now youth of the villages are distracting from animal keeping. Sh. Narendra Singh Tanwar proposed that State should import sexed semen and it was approved by house to send the recommendation to the proper forum of the State.

The meeting ended with vote of thanks to the chair.
